Here's to the Losers

Here's to those who golf not too wisely, drive not wisely, play like hell

To the girl who lost her panties, cause her hubby doesn't putt so well

To the guy who'd throw a party, if he could hit that little ball

Here's to the Losers, bless them all

Here's to those who drink their dinners when their bogie putts fall short.

Tom and Bill have kicked their asses, showing mastering of this sport.

To another lonely summer, losing's made you feel so small.

Here's to the Losers, a-bless them all

Surrender?

Yes, it's early, but surely you can see the writing on the wall...

Remember, there is no shame in giving up, my friend.

In fact, it's quite noble. It takes a strong person to admit their failings. You're already 2 or 3 strokes behind, why not just enjoy the beautiful day and the friendship of your playing partner?

It's about time you stop and smell the roses anyway.

Ode to the Mullens

Three times we have been moody
Three times we have been sullen
Three times we have been bested by Dan and Patrick Mullen.

They're much better golfers, of that you can be sure
Their swings are much more graceful, their putting much more pure.
Their handicaps are lower, they could be on the Tour.
Their gait is straight and confident, their manner is cocksure.

On any given day, of any given year
On any given course, they surely have no peer
On any given hole, they stick it nice and near
In any other tournament, they may have heard the cheers.
Yet David slew Goliath, the giant he did kill
The best don't always win the game, even though they have the skill
So stand up for the underdogs and shout upon the hill

Ode to the Gordons

One man took a plane, from Nebraska – Omaha
The other drove from Wilmette, to go golfing with his pa.

Mike, the oldest Gordon boy, Uncle Ron who was his Dad
Were hoping for some Gordon joy, after years of feeling sad

You see, they've spent their lifetimes, looking up that hill
They could never beat their cousins, who are known as Tom and Bill

In Bocche ball, they'd always fall | In checkers, they would lose
Fast pitch or Pinnars, Tom and Bill were winners
Kickball gave them the blues

Game of croquet, the Latourettes | Would always win the test
Egg of the Year, they might come near | But Tom or Bill would be the best

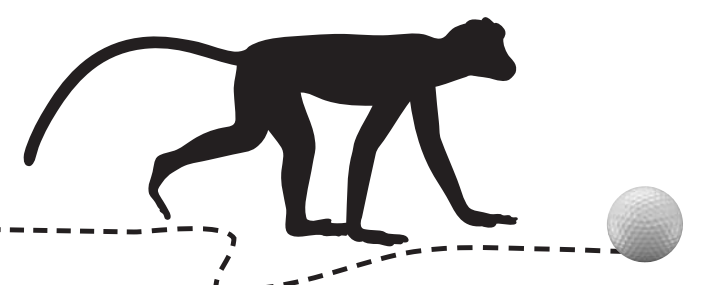

So they came out to Old Orchard, for more of the same torture
And you must be asking why?

The Gordons lack no guile or guts, They just can't seem to make their putts
It's enough to make you cry

So our Gordon Cousin | And the brother of our Mom
Tonight will drive back to Wilmette | When they lose, AGAIN, to Bill and Tom...

— YOU ARE ENTERING — The Beat Tom and Bill Triangle!

Before you enter, please take a few moments to locate the nearest emergency exit. Fasten your seat belt as we expect turbulence. Insert the metal fittings, and tighten by pulling on the loose end of the strap.

In the event the wind is knocked out of you or there is a loss of air pressure, an oxygen mask will drop from your cart. To start the flow of oxygen, pull the mask towards you. Place it firmly over your nose and mouth, secure the elastic band behind you, breathe normally and then help your partner with their mask. Keep your mask on until a PGA pro advises you to remove it.

In the event you or your ball should make a water landing, your seat can act as flotation device. If there is an emergency, please assume the bracing position. Lean forward with your hands on top of your head, your elbows against your thighs and your mouth planted firmly on your backside. Now, kiss your ass goodbye!

You will find this and all other safety information in the card located in the seat pocket in front of you. We'll be serving drinks and beer nuts shortly. We hope you have an enjoyable flight!

Congratulations!

You survived the BTB Triangle, my friend!

Don't relax now, you still have some holes left.

Feel your palms sweat and your throat tighten.

Feel the pressure drop, taking the air out of the atmosphere.

Feel the awesome presence that is TOM AND BILL.

Are you having a hard time catching your breath?

Has the Oxygen mask dropped yet? We thought so.

Tom and Bill Quiz

What do your game and the economy have in common?

- The economy hasn't lost this much since the Great Depression.
Your game is just depressing!
- You both are in need of a bailout
- Most stocks can't hit their par value. You can't hit Par.
- One is shooting bad – the other shit the bed.
- The Lehman Brothers are a broke bank.
The Latourette Brothers just broke your back.
- You both suck!
- The European problems trickled down and reached our shores. You're a peeing just trickled on your shoes!
